The Daily Press.

HONGKONG, JUNE 23RD, 1894.

The public will be glad to observe that the whole question of the separate drainage system has again been raised at the Sanitary Board, and it is likely to be thoroughly thrashed out. The system now under suspicion and it is in every respect desirable that the question should either be removed or confirmed. That the nuisance arising from drains is greater now than before the introduction of the separate system there is unfortunately no doubt, but it does not necessarily follow that that is due to any inherent defect in the system itself. The Colonial Surgeon tells us that the "general complaint about the new drainage is a matter of a great deal of nonsense because so far as the new drainage has gone only a very few houses in proportion to the town have been connected." It would seem, indeed, that while people, observing the increase in the stinks, have in their ignorance been setting down the nuisance to the new drainage system, it is really the old system that has been giving off the offensive emanations, the greater intensity of the stinks being due to the fact that the ends of certain of the sewers had been blocked up and the sewers themselves connected into cesspools. The Captain Superintendent of Police at the meeting of the Board on Thursday urged that the question was one for experts. But we do not want an expert to tell us that you cannot with impunity block up the outlet of a drain which is still used for the reception of sewage. The Colony will probably think it has had enough of expert opinion and that what is now required is the sifting of that opinion through the sieve of common sense. The blocking of the old drains emphasizes Mr. Fraser's remark that Mr. Cooper's and Mr. Fraser's remarks are not completely trustworthy and not endowed with such great skill and ability as to induce the public to give them sole charge. Having committed such an outrage in respect to the old drains, what security is there that they may not do something equally outrageous in respect to the new system? The main reason for the separate system have now been laid, and the question is whether houses shall be compulsorily connected therewith. Apart from any question of confidence in the scientific administration of the Public Works Department, which has been so severely shaken by the recent disclosures in connection with the blocking up of drains, the success of the separate system presupposes an abundant water supply. Without such a supply the system must necessarily be a failure. And by a plentiful supply is meant not only ten or twenty gallons per head per diem, but during the dry season this quantity is not available at times many of the houses are left practically without any supply from the public mains at all and the little the occupants are able to get from the springs on the hillside probably does not amount to more than a gallon per head per diem; and there are not a few cases in which what is called the "prescribed domestic quantity" has been fixed at as small an amount as two gallons per head per diem. That even when there is an abundance of water, the houses in question are not allowed to consume more than the "prescribed domestic quantity" is a fact which has never been able to ascertain, but from time to time notices appear in the Guangtung stating the quantity for particular blocks of houses. With the "prescribed domestic quantity" of water fixed in many cases at five gallons a head it follows that the separate drainage system must become a tool of oppression, and a means of making the houses in the town shall be compulsorily connected with the separate system, if it ever does so decide, it must satisfy itself as to whether the water supply can be brought up to at least the minimum quantity required for the successful working of that system. There may possibly be objections to urge against the separate system independently of the water supply, but apart from all other objections a deficient water supply must be considered absolutely fatal. Mr. Cooper's urging the value of expert opinion asks what would be thought of him if he thought of prescribing for patients suffering from the plague or attempt the manipulation of any legal machinery. We may suppose that if Mr. Cooper himself were unfortunately to fall sick or be involved in any legal action he would not successfully play himself in the hands of experts who had made such an egregious mess of previous cases as the Public Works Department have been by stopping up the old drains while sewage was still running into them.

The P. M. steamer Chien left San Francisco for this port via Yokohama on the 19th inst.

The P. & O. steamer Shanghai left Singapore for this port on the 21st inst. at 6 p.m.

The steamer Lionel left Singapore on the 22nd inst. and is due here on or about the 29th inst.

The steamer Flintshire left Singapore on the 22nd inst. and is due here on or about the 29th inst.

We hear that a Chinese long trading as general commission merchants at Wing Lok Street failed yesterday with liabilities of about $50,000. Amongst the creditors are several Chinese banks with claims of over half a million.

To-morrow morning, between 9 and 10.30 o'clock, the steam launch Depp, carrying the Bathel flag, will call alongside any vessel having a boat on board at St. Peter's (St. James') Church, returning about 12.30.

Mr. Frank Brown, of the Government Civil Hospital, gave an address last night to the "Old Volunteers" on the "Chemistry of Combustion." The lecture was exceedingly interesting and Mr. Brown's remarks were received with much interest by the audience, which was composed of about 100 persons.

The Courier to Saigon says the M. M. steamer Corby took from Saigon to Kobe between three and four hundred bales of cotton from the establishment of Freres & Co. From Fuch. This cotton, our contemporary adds, is shipped to the spinning mill at Kobe, its excellent quality being highly appreciated.

In justice to Mr. R. E. Lush we ought perhaps to record a remark made by that gentleman at the meeting of the Sanitary Board on Thursday, which did not appear in our report. It was in connection with the application for the extension of the separate drainage system that he was speaking, and after pointing out the evils which would arise if the harbour was polluted by the general adoption of the system, he said that he was perfectly well aware that his firm had obtained permission to erect such water closets, but that he had been extremely surprised that they obtained the Board's consent so easily. Of course, Mr. Lush's remarks were directed against the Board, and it is a member of the Board, which was a commendable exhibition of public spirit.

At the Marine Magistrate's Court yesterday, before Commissioner R. M. Ramsey, James Cook and Frederick Curran, ordinary seamen, and Francis Blair, cabin boy, were charged with refusing duty on board the British ship Depp on the 19th and 20th inst. Capt. J. B. Croft said that when he went on board on the 18th the second mate told him that he had experienced a lot of trouble with the crew who wanted to leave the ship. Next morning he told him that if it was thought he was going to be "kicked" on them at all for their failure to do the duty they were actually refused to work. The defendant pleaded that they did not want to stay in the ship. His Worship sentenced them all to an eight days' imprisonment with hard labour.

MANIFESTO FROM THE POPE.

LOAN ON 20th June.

In an important encyclical letter the Pope says that at the close of his life he desires to urge the union of all churches. He especially addresses himself to the "western" Protestant churches, and exhorts them to return to the ancient church, and to unite in one faith and unity. He says that he is deeply grieved that the Christian world is divided into so many sects, and that the Christian people are separated by religious differences. He urges them to unite in one faith and unity, and to love one another as brethren.

THE CONGO TREATY.

It is understood that Great Britain, out of good will to Germany, has agreed to the Treaty regarding the Congo. The treaty is a long and complicated one, and it is not yet known what its effect will be. It is, however, generally expected that it will result in a division of the Congo basin between Germany and Belgium.

VISIT OF THE CZAREWITZ.

The Czar's daughter, the Princess Alexandra, is expected to visit London in the near future. She is the only daughter of the Czar of Russia, and she is a very popular figure in the Russian Empire. Her visit to London is expected to be a great success, and it is hoped that it will result in a closer friendship between the two countries.

Yesterday's return shows a slight increase in the number of admissions and in the number of deaths in the City. The figures are, however, very slight, and the improvement during the day that the epidemic had alarmingly spread was quite correct. The total number of deaths less than on Thursday, which is hopeful of recovery among those afflicted.

REVIEW.

The Ship's Digital and Other Oceanic Anecdotes. London: T. Fisher Unwin.

The latest volume of the Penny Dreadful Library is "The Ship's Digital and Other Oceanic Anecdotes." It is a collection of stories and anecdotes about ships and sailors, and it is a very interesting and entertaining book. It is written in a simple and straightforward style, and it is full of interesting details and facts. It is a book that is well worth reading, and it is a book that is well worth recommending to all who are interested in ships and sailors.
